Dear Mr. Tarr:

I'm sending this e-mail to voice my opposition to the Atlantic Coast Pipeline. In a very convincing editorial in the News and Observer of Jan. 20, Ned Barnett called attention to the outmoded nature of Duke Energy's business model, as exemplified by the company's commitment to building said pipeline. If North Carolina's government rejects the project, it will do much to turn Duke Energy toward a stronger commitment to renewable energy sources, as is happening elsewhere in the industry, as noted in Mr. Barnett's column.
